MILLER TO BE NAMED POSTMASTER

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

They laughed at Fulton, Edison and others of similar minds, and they laughed at us when we suggested this, but we find consolation in the fact that there are only 11 men in the world who understand the Einstein theory.

* * *

Press reports inform us that another branch bank was robbed yesterday and a man killed in an attempt to halt the bandits.

* * *

And we wonder why the banks still use the old antiquated method of having thousands of dollars in sight and easily accessible to bandits who may walk into the place with a gun and a grim determination to get some easy money.

* * *

Here's an idea that may not be practicable for large institutions where all transactions must be handled in a hurry, but we believe it would work out in smaller banks.

* * *

Why not have all the cash in a vault with a series of gates or locks which would require a few minutes to open? In this vault, which could be made livable by modern engineering methods, could be stationed the cashier or teller.

* * *

Patrons of the bank could present their checks to a man stationed in the manner used by all banks at the present time. By the means of a conveyor system which would be almost instantaneous the check or a receipt used for the bank records coudr be sent to the man in the vault. The cash would be returned immediately by the same conveyor method.

In the same manner, deposits could be taken in the usual

STATE RACE RIOT QUELLED

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—UP—Street fights between small groups of Filipinos and white men that had occured here in the past 24 hours were all that kept alive the extra vigilance of peace officers of northern California tonight to prevent other uprisings.

Other sections of the state where outbreaks had been reported in the past week seemed to have restored complete peace.

The battles on San Francisco streets were both apparently spontaneous affairs and could not be attributed to any troublesome issues between the combatants.

Two Filipinos escorting white girls said they fought off two white men who made "fresh remarks" to them and five or six other white men joined the battle, only to flee when 10 police officers arrived.

The other fight was between three immigrants and two taxicab drivers.

A statement urging Filipinos to be orderly was issued here tonight by Gabriel Q. Arellano, editor of the Philippine Journal and president of the Philippine Civic League.

Mrs. Caldera Asks For Estate Letters

MARTINEZ, Jan. 28.—Letters of administraion in the estate of her late husband, Manuel Caldera, was petitioned today by Mrs. Minnie Caldera of Richmond.

The estate is valued at more than $5000. Clare D. Horner is attorney for Mrs. Caldera.

LONG TAKES SUPERVISOR POST

James N. Long, supervisor. John A. Miller, postmaster. Ralph Wood, deputy internal revenue collector for this district.

These are the developments in the resignation of Zeb Knott as county supervisor announced yesterday morning in the RECORD-HERALD.

Long's appointment has already been made by Gov. C. C. Young, and the new supervisor will take his post at the next session of the county board in Martinez on Monday.

Miller Appointed Soon

It is understood that Miller will receive his appointment as postmaster effective on Feb 1. Woods' appointment is expected a short time later.

Appointment of Miller will eliminate him from the election this fall as a candidate for sheriff. Miller has been an avowed candidate for the sheriff's post for the last year. According to well founded reports, Miller will accept the appointment of postmaster.

Wood, it is expected, will accept the revenue post. Wood is an active member and past commander of Honor Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; commander of Richmond Allied War Veterans council and adjutant of Admiral Dewey Camp, Spanish War Veterans. Wood, who has been active in Richmond and county veteran activities is a veteran of the Spanish American war and the World War.

Long In Capital

Long went to Sacramento yesterday and received his commission from the governor's office. Long has been postmaster of Richmond since 1921. He came to Richmond in 1909 and since that time has been active in civic affairs.

Long's appointment by the governor is until Jan. 1, 1931. He has announced that he will be a candidate to succeed himself at the primaries to be held this fall.

Previous to becoming postmaster, Long served on the city council, During his term as councilman he acted as mayor for two years. Long also served as a member of the board of education. During 1921 Long served as assemblyman from this county.

Long announced yesterday that he has submitted his resignation as postmaster effective Feb. 1. It is expected that Miller's appointment to the position will be made on or before that date.

Bar To Fight Rum Fine Rule

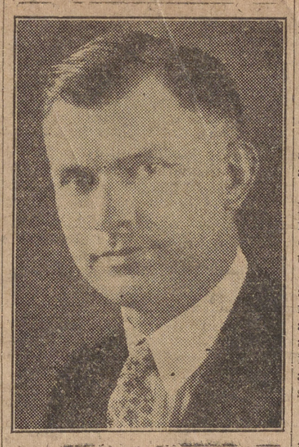
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—UP—The San Francisco Bar association announced tonight it would fight the ruling of the prohibition administrator raising penalties for convicted bootleggers who failed to pay internal revenue taxes from $25 to $100 as minimum in addition to fines. The bar claimed it is unfair to punish a bootlegger twice for the same offense.

Local Ministers At Concord Meet

Rev. A. A. Pratt of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. K. B. Wallace of the First Baptist church and Rev. C. G. Lindemann of the Wesley Methodist church were the guests of the Contra Costa county Ministerial association Monday at a meeting in the Concord Presbyterian church.

The meeting was featured by a book review of "Wrestle of Religion with Truth." Rev. Otis P. Lynn of Walnut Creek, reviewed the book.

Supervisor, Postmaster



JAMES N. LONG, (top) former postmaster of this city who resigned his post yesterday to take the position of supervisor from this district left vacant by the resignation of Zeb Knott. John A. Miller (bottom) is to be named postmaster to succeed Long.

KIWANIS FETE LADIES TONIGHT

Final preparations have been made for the ladies night entertainment to be held by the Richmond Kiwanis club at Mammy's Place on San Pablo avenue tonight.

The party is expected to be one of the largest events ever held by the local club and a record attendance is expected.

Homer Patterson, Richmond attorney, will be in charge of the even.

The speaker of the evening will be Tora Kawasaki, consul general of Japan at San Francisco. His address will be entitled "Present Day Japan." This talk will be illustrated.

The business session of the club will be held at the Hotel Carquinez next Wednesday. Rev. Louck will be chairman of the day.

DRIVER FINED

Charles C. Steel of Rio Vista, was fined $5 when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Arthur Astrom yesterday on a charge of driving without a muffler.

PLANT WILL EMPLOYE 1500

Addition to the Filice and Perrelli cannery now under construction will more than double the number of persons to be employed and add approximately $300,000 to the construction project of the company it was revealed yesterday.

According to plans revealed yesterday the canning company is planning an addition on the easterly portion of its property on the inner harbor which will employ approximately 750 persons, the same number to be employed in the plant now under construction on the western portion of the property.

The plant on western end of the property will be rushed to completion so that the larger part of this year's pack of vegetables and fruits can be taken care of, and it is expected that the other project now under consideration will be completed about a year later.

Meetings Held

Conferences have been held between members of the city council, the city manager, city engineer, city attorneys, officials of the Parr Richmond Terminal corporation and representatives of the Filice and Perrelli corporation.

Certain conditions which would have to be met in the construction to the addition to the plant were discussed and it is reported that these conditions can all be met.

Arrangements are now understood to be under way by the canning company officials to build the addition here without delay. Plans are said to have been studied studied for the new project and other arrangements made for rearly construction.

To Employ 1500

An announcement from Felice and Perrelli yesterday published in the RECORD-HERALD stated that the company would save $49,000 in freight alone with the completion of the new canning plant now under construction on a portion of its property.

When both projects of the company are in operation it will represent an investment of approximately $750,000 and will employ from 1500 to 2000 persons during the canning season and approximately one quarter of that number during the other four months of the year.

CARS COLLIDE

Cars driven by Paul Lewis of Crockett and Basil J. Thompson of Richmond collided at Roosevelt and San Pablo avenues last night, police reported. Slight damage was done and no one was injured.

BANDITS KILL OAKLANDER IN HOLDUP OF BRANCH BANK

OAKLAND, Jan. 28—(U.P.)—For the second time within six months, robbers of Oakland banks killed to escape with their loot here today.

Three men, the same number that participated in the previous robbery which claimed a life, were responsible for the death of Capt. Joseph E. Fox, veteran of army service in the Philippines and the World War.

They had entered a branch bank of the American Trust company and were covering five men, including Fox, with their guns.

Fox had been deputized as a sheriff and drew the revolver he was carrying before the robbers were aware of their peril. He fired too hastily at the bandit closest him and missed. Another member of the gang answered his shot with a bullet that hit just above the heart and Fox, a married man with one son, dropped dead.

The victim had been in the bank to deposit some money. He had gained the rating of marksman in the army and only his haste prevented frustration of the robbers' plans.

The trio escaped in a stolen automobile and transferred to another machine four miles from the bank. They carried $1600 in bills from the bank with them.

Last fall an Oakland bank teller was killed during a robbery here and three men responsible were sent to the gallows of San Quentin penitentiary..

RICHMOND POLICE GUARD HIGHWAYS

Richmond police yesterday had the first opportunity to make use of their riot squad equipment—but the equipment only received a rehearsal.

Informed of the Oakland bank holdup in which one man was slain, Chief of Police Dan Cox assembled 15 officers not on parole duty in the city and guarded the highways and streets in this section. The men on duty were equipped with the machine gun, bullet proof vests, sawed off shot guns, tear gas and other equipment recently added to the arsenal of the local riot squad.

Police, however, did not have any occasion to use the equipment as the bandits are believed to have left the eastbay by another route.

Two suspects taken to the police station were released after they had been questioned by Oakland officers. The suspects were jicked up on the San Pablo dam road and in a general way fitted the description sent out by Oakland as that of the two bandit slayers.

DE RIVERA RESIGNS AS HEAD OF DICTATORSHIP IN SPAIN

MADRID, Jan. 28—(U.P.)—Premier Primo De Rivera brought his dictatorship of more than six years to a close tonight by dramatically announcing that King Alphonso had accepted his resignation.

Gen. Damaso Berenguer, chief of the Royal military household was appointed to carry on in his place.

Illness was cited by De Rivera a the reason for his withdrawal from the helm of government. An impulsive faux pas, in which he encroached on the King's traditional perogatives, was held to be the real and immediate cause.

At 8:20 p. m., the 60-year old dictator went to the royal palace. He told newspapermen "I am going to give the King an account of a certain matter. When I come out I will give you news."

Tells Resignation

As he left the palace he publicly announced that he had resigned on account of ill health and that General Berenguer had been asked to form a cabinet.

Thus ended the great governmental experiment of a man who had been a soldier accustomed to military discipline since he was 14 years old and believed he could rebuild Spain by the same methods.

When he took the helm in September, 1923, he hoped to step out in a few weeks. But Spain responded more slowly to his desire for change than he had hoped, with the result that he kept postponing the ultimate time when he knew he must relinquish control.

LOCAL REALTORS LAY PLANS FOR VISIT OF DAUM

Final preparations are being made to welcome W. H. Daum, newly elected president of the California Real Estate association to Richmond on Feb. 15.

Daum will be honored guest of the Richmond Real Estate board at the Hotel Carquinez at a dinner meeting.

According to Mrs. W. H. Sanford chairman of the committee in charge of the event, this meeting will be of keen interest to all business men and women.

Daum has been one of California's leading realtors for many years, and for six years has served as chairman of the industrial division of the California Real Estate association.

"Industrial Mindedness" which Daum has been preaching through all these years has awakened many a California citizen to the progress possible and available throughout this great state along industrial and commercial lines of endeavor, and in turn what this development means in the production of wealth, comfort and happiness for every other line of endeavor in the state and for its entire citizenship, Mrs. Sanford said.

Daum in a recent speech said: "More than 250,000 homes are occupied by industrial workers and artisans in California in 1929 than were within the state in 1909. More than 1,250,000 inhabitants are living off the industries of California than was the case 20 years ago—California is rapidly becoming known to the industrial giants of the United States as the precision state for the reason that the many major industries nationally in their scope which have entered the field of manufacturing in California have planned and gotten precisely the same good and satisfactory results, and are able to operate their plants in precisely the same economic and profitable manner, season in and season out, year after year."

There will be other speakers on the program, including Glenn D. William, state secretary of the California Real Estate association. There will be a musical program and a turkey dinner will be served at 6:30 o. m.

Tickets for the event will be obtained at the office of any realtor in Richmond or Martinez. Reservations may be made at the office of Mrs. W. H. Sanford 2221 Macdonald avenue, phone Richmond 927.

PINOLE SCOUT TROOP FORMED

Organization of Troop No. 1 of Pinole Boy Scouts was perfected last night at a meeting held in Pinole.

The troop was sponsored by the Pinole Methodist church, with R. V. Smith acting as troop chairman.

The troop will be formally installed at services to be held in the church on March 2.

L. E. Parker will act as Scoutmaster. Rev. J. B. Rudkins is Scout Commissioner. Members of the troop committee include Smith, Hutchinson, C. A. Lemley, E. J. Fairbanks, and Walter Adams.

Mrs. J. Martinez Final Rites Today

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Juana Martinez of Sanford avenue, have been set for 9:30 this morning at the St. Pauls Catholic church. Interment will follow in St. Joseph's cemetery. Wilson and Kratzer are handling arrangements.

LIFE SENTENCE FOLLOWS SIX MONTHS TERM

One good turn deserves another. In other words if a judge gives you a six months sentence and you appreciate his actions come back and get a life term.

That apparently was the opinion of Leandro Guerra, 29, 106 Chanslor avenue.

Guerra and A. Ruth Hayes, 27, were married yesterday afternoon by Police Judge C. A. Odell in the city hall. But the marriage was a rather unusual one as far as those aiding in it were concerned.

In the first place, Judge Odell passed a six months sentence on Guerra in October on a vagrancy charge. Guerra was taken to the county jail and because of good behavior was released last Thursday.

On Tuesday, Guerra was released from the county jail long enough to go to the county clerk's office and apply for a marriage license with Miss Hayes. They planned to be married Thursday, the day of Guerra's release. Preparations had to be made however and the wedding was delayed until yesterday.

When the couple appeared in Judge Odell's court, they asked if Sgt. Charles Mahnke of the Richmond police department could be sent to the city hall. Sergeant Mahnke was sent to the judge's chambers and was asked by the couple to act as best man. The officer consented.

And it wasn't the first time Sergeant Mahnke had appeared before Judge Odell with Guerra. On the previous visit it was Sergeant Mahnke who had arrested Guerra and brought the man before the police court.

Alpha Lodge To Hear Talk

It was announced at a meeting of the Alpha Masonic lodge in the Masonic hall last night, that Geo. F. Schwartz of San Francisco, would be the speaked at a meeting of the lodge next Tuesday night.

Schwartz, who is associated with the Klieber Motor company of San Francisco, will tell of his experiences whiel traveling thru Syria and Arabia. He will also illustrate his talk.

The second degree was conferred at last night's meeting, and a discussion was held on the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' fund.

$23 TAKEN FROM CASH DRAWER

Two youthful bandits, driving a machine stolen from Oakland, early last night held up the attendant at the Bay Counties corporation's service station at Macdonald and San Pablo avenues and escaped with $23 in cash.

According to police, the bandits overlooked $10 in the pockets of the attendant and more than $50 in the service station safe.

Police of the bay area have been notified and a close watch is being kept on the highway for the car.

Two Bandits

The two bandits were described as being between the ages of 18 and 19 years. One had red hair was about five foot, eight inches tall, weighed about 123 pounds had blue eyes and was wearing a grey suit and hat. The second youth's was dark and wore dark clothing.

John Rector, 18, 5110 Amador avenue, Mira Vista station attendant reported to police that at about nine o'clock last night two boys drove into the service station and wanted air put in their tires. They were driving a 1929 Buick sedan license number square E—16653.

As young Rector stopped to unscrew the tire valve cover, the red-headed youth stuck a gun at his back and ordered him into the women's restroom near the air pump.

Cash Taken

His companion, Rector said, then leaped out of the car, entered the service station and cleaned out the till.

While one of the bandits was looting the till, the second one chatted with young Rector as he held him prisoner.

"Sorry we had to do this" the reheaded bandit said according to Rector. "We need money awfully bad. Maybe some day we'll come back and pay you."

With the cash drawer cleaned, the two got into the car and drove north on San Pablo avenue. Young Rector immediately called police and an investigation was started immediately.

Car Stolen

Young Rector was alone at the time of the holdup. Loren Whitlock, is manager of the station.

According to Rector, he had $10 in his purse during the holdup but neither of the two men made any move to search him. A small safe hidden by two doors, contained more than $50. The safe was not noticed by the pair.

Police declared that the car used by the two bandits was stolen from Oakland early last night.

PINOLE DRIVER, WIFE HELD HERE

Arrested on San Pablo avenue last night, Fred Benson, of Pinole, is in the city jail charged with driving while drunk and his wife occupies an adjoining cell, facing charges of disturbing the peace.

Mr. and Mrs. Benson were arrested by Traffic Officer Lester Eaton.

They will appear before Justice of the Peace A. A. Astrom this morning.

BUILDING PERMIT

Mrs. A. Bryan was granted a building permit yesterday in the office of A. J. Hurley, city building inspector to erect a one car garage on Nineteenth street between Nevin and Barrett avenues. The structure is to cost $75.

Why Women Cheat the Calendar

IF there is one subject on which this column is supposed to be an authority,
And one mission in life which it has chosen for its own—
The subject is woman, and the mission is—paraphrasing Milton—to justify the ways of woman to man.
Therefore we take pleasure in setting man right
On a subject to which he seems to have devoted much thought—in vain—
Since some man or other is perpetually bringing it up
And expressing a greater or less degree of mystification.
The bemused point of view of the whole male sex
On why women devote so much time, thought and effort
To the business of keeping young and beautiful
Is eloquently expressed in a letter which we have just received,
And which we quote, before offering our reply.
"Why is it," writes Joseph R. Fabian, "that women are so much more given "To cheating the calendar than men are?
"Whatever the failings of men may be,
"They are free from the folly of wanting to look like boys of fifteen.
"They would as soon try to look like babies in perambulators.
"They may diet themselves for health reasons,
"But they would not sacrifice a single pleasure of the table
"In order to take a reef in at the waistline,
"Or to pass themselves off as fluttering young things just out of the nest.
"Men, like women, are delighted to be told that they look younger than they know themselves to be;
"But whereas a woman will keep the truth to herself,
"A man will triumphantly declare the fact of age, as if it were a bit of good news he was bursting to tell you.
"He is more likely to put a year or two on his age than to take one off.
"And he flaunts Time's visiting cards as if they were invitations to a White House garden party.
"If his head is bald, does he conceal the fact under a wig?
"Not a bit of it.
"He polishes it up so that it shines like a good deed in a naughty world.
"And if his abdomen reminds you of the dome on the Capitol Building,
"He will make a boast and a glory of it.
"He will even write to the newspapers about it—
"As a distinguished artist did, who proudly announced
"That he had not seen his toes for years.
"If he tries to get his girth down
"He does not do so because he yearns to have a sylph-like figure,
"But because he wants to get his golf-handicap down,
"Or to keep his seat in the saddle, or for some other entirely selfish reason.
"I know some prominent public men who enjoy the humor of their own circumferences,
"But no woman ever enjoyed being told that she was fat.
"Indeed, the word 'embonpoint' has become incorporated in our language
"In order to meet the female case.
"No one thinks of referring to a man's 'embonpoint.'
"He would feel that the dignity of his corporation was being trifled with.
"But a woman is never fat;
"She only has 'embonpoint.'
"And who ever heard of a woman with a bald head?
"The mere idea is so outside any visible experience
"That it seems almost like sacrilege to entertain it.
"Yet there are times when the horrid thought will come to the surface.
"Surely Nature is not so discriminating between the sexes as this.
"Surely somewhere there must be a woman with a bald head.
"But if there is, the whole sex must be in the conspiracy of silence,
"And women must be congratulated
"On the best kept secret in the world to-day.
"I suppose the fact is that women will do anything
"To look pretty and young,
"While men will do anything to feel comfortable.
"Women will not let out the truth about their age
"Even on a census paper.
"After the age of twenty-five, it seems, women do not get any older.
"A census taker once told me that when he compared the number of girls
"Who were returned as between the ages of ten and fifteen at one census
"With the number of women between the ages of thirty and twenty-five at the next census,
"He found that, so far from having diminished by deaths,
"They had actually increased.
"Which fact, I may add, is funny.
"What is the secret of why women do it!"
The secret, if you ask us or any other woman, is more pathetic than funny—
Those women who try to cheat the calendar—
For not all women do it nowadays—some tell the truth about their age
To the census taker, to their friends, even to their admirers,
And such women thrill to what is, of course, the only courteous comeback:
"You don't look it—no one would ever guess it"——
But the other women, who still bluff about birthdays
Not only in words but in the way they dress, diet and make up,
Do so because they know, by experience and observation,
That most men have absolutely no use for a woman who doesn't at least convey the illusion
Of youth and beauty.
Most men, however, middle-aged or even elderly themselves, don't want to marry women
Who refuse to cheat the calendar,
Women who allow themselves to get stout, gray-haired, wrinkled—
And as for a bald woman, perish the thought!
What man would even be seen in her company—
To say nothing of marrying her, or employing her?
(For in addition to the old romantic reasons for cheating the calendar,
The modern woman may find that she has to do it for economic reasons—
Since so many jobs go to the young, and nobody else but!)
Men can grow middle-aged, even elderly, without losing the favor of women,
But the reverse is unhappily not true—far from it!
Since women belong to the amiable sex,
Whose motto is "We strive to please"—
Since many men seem to be pleased (and cheated) by calendar-cheating women—
They are likely to keep right on with their tragi-comic effort.
And men have only themselves to blame!

Oh, Go to Bed

"DAD, what's a lobbyist?"

"Well, Son, a lobbyist is a man who is employed to influence legislation."

"What's legislation?"

"The enactment of laws, tariff bills, &c."

"What's a bill? Oh, I know, they're what you get on the first of every month that makes you angry."

"They're not that kind of bills."

"What kind are they?"

"Well, they're kind of laws."

"Why does a lobbyist want to influence legislation?"

"To get laws in the interest of his employers."

"Why does he want laws in the interest of his employers?"

"To make money for himself."

"Is a lobbyist a bad man?"

"It all depends. If he is working for a bill we want, he is broadening the outlook of Congress, but if we are opposed to the bill, he is a pernicious lobbyist."

"Is everybody a lobbyist?"

"Of course not, and some are merely trying to broaden the outlook of Congress."

"Does Congress ever get broadened?"

"Oh, go to bed!"

Have You Made an Inventory?

WELL organized households should consider it good policy to take inventory at least once a year, as do established business organizations. Necessary items one year may be the very things not needed the next. If last year's furniture is not changed for new, probably its value has depreciated, due to another year's usage.

An inventory helps to determine the necessary amount of fire insurance and provides proof in any claim for damage by fire. The same is true if burglary insurance is carried.

The family budget for the coming year can be better arranged by an inventory changed from time to time during the present one. At regular intervals list all new gifts and articles purchased, and cross off those which have been disposed of. It is important to know what is on hand, the condition of each article and its value, in order to better arrange next year's family budget.

If homes are rented for any length of time during the year an inventory is certainly essential. There is always the risk of loss and damage through avoidable or unavoidable sources while the new tenant is in possession. An inventory signed by both parties furnishes proof of the contents and condition of all items in the household. Any agreement necessary to cover liabilities while the tenant is in occupancy can be made at the time of renting in accordance with the inventory.

As a final suggestion, it would be wise to make the inventory, family budgets, &c., in duplicate, and to keep one copy outside of the home in case of loss through any cause of the other.

Embroidered Bags

TO INJECT pattern and color in the realm of handbags, new tailored envelopes of moire have scattered designs in beauvais embroidery. Equally as prim in shape is the evening bag of pale tinted brocade decorated with a small, sprawling pattern embroidered in gold. Satin bags similarly are embroidered in gold designs. The pouch of simulated seed pearls now is combined with beauvais embroidery to add to its luxuriousness and beauty.

Afternoon bags are decidedly formal in dull leathers or suede with marcasite studding the frames or forming modernistic clasps.

THEATRE FASHIONS By Helen Worden

A GAY scarlet angora cardigan contributes to the brightness of the sports costume worn by Miss Gertrude Lawrence for the rehearsals of the "International Revue," scheduled to open next month. With the jacket Miss Lawrence wears a cream white jersey blouse, banded in scarlet and navy blue. The accompanying skirt is of navy blue wool. The hat is fashioned of scarlet felt, with the brim gathered to achieve a ripply outline.

Printed yellow cretonne forms the knee-length coat worn with the white crepe de chine dress by a member of the ensmble in "Strike Up the Band." A smart feature of the frock is revealed in the pleated jabot and skirt. A white crepe de chine belt offers contrast to the flowered jacket.

The Cleaning of Brass

IT IS not difficult to keep brass looking bright if it receives regular care. Wipe daily with a soft cloth and occasionally mix finely sifted rottenstone to a paste with some sweet oil and apply in usual way. Brass will stay clean longer if after polishing it is washed in hot water to remove every trace of polish, then polished with a little dry rottenstone on a chamois and a final polish given with a piece of velvet.

When brass is tarnished, oxalic acid in solution or vinegar and salt, especially if warmed, will quickly dissolve this. Apply with a flannel cloth, then wash off every particle of the cleaning agent, as acids have a tendency to increase tarnish; dry it, then rub with dry whiting to take up all moisture and give the brass a brilliant finish.

When grandma cleaned her brass she put it into a strong solution of soda and hot water and brushed it well with soap, then she lifted it out into the dishpan and poured boiling water over it. She left it in the water two or three minutes, then dried it carefully. When in very bad condition she boiled the brass articles in the soda and water and grandma's brass always glistened.

Fabrics and Lines in Spring Suits

WHEN purchasing clothes for early spring, it is well to consider the advantages of the two-piece dressmaker suit having matching skirt and jacket as well as the ensemble of dress and coat. For these two types have higher rank in costumes than the separate dress and coat for spring.

Early wear will start with such fabrics as tweeds, the rough surfaced woolens including diagonals and chevlots, and then progress into jersey, wool crepe, and later to silks. The SILK SUIT is spelled in capitals since all fashion authorities agree that it will be the chic suit of the warm weather season.

Colors for the first days of spring in the realm of suits give position to black and white and to blue and white. The beige tones and green also are very good. Brown of course has proven to be a staple and will be prominent in ensembles.

Paris has evolved a new ensemble of dress and short jacket in matching color but contrasting material, a possible solution of the very difficult problem always of matching dresses to the separate coat.

Rejuvenating the Dry Skin

NO OFFENSE intended by the word "rejuvenating." While implying that the dry skin can be youthified, the word does not necessarily connotate the idea that dry skin is old skin. Not in all cases, at any rate.

But this fact the possessor of a dry skin must face: her skin is extremely perishable, as a rule, a ready prey to lines and wrinkles and premature agedness. And only correct care, meaning consistent and intelligent care, can keep such a skin attractive.

How shall you know whether yours is a dry skin? Dry skin chaps easily, reacts to most powders by flaking and to most soaps by stiffening. It shrivels up under the icy blasts of real winter and shows a tendency to early lines about the eyes—that is, unless it is under sixteen years of age.

Another mean characteristic of the dry skin is its tendency to grow crinkly around the eyelids and the throat somewhat earlier than a normal or an oily skin does. In other words, as you most likely have concluded already for yourself, to have a dry skin is to have a delicate problem. A problem that cries for cream, cream and more cream for its solving, and rich cream too, specially created to lubricate and feed the everlasting hunger of oil-starved tissue.

Its need is for the gentlest of soaps, soaps of the genus olive oil, soaps that cleanse without harshening after-effects. For the average case of dry skin, we should say use cream three or four times to every soap-and-water cleansing. At that, the water should be warm rather than hot and the soap applied directly to the face or even to the washcloth, never. Do this instead: Make a rich bowl of lather and dip the cloth into that, then onto the face. And rinse ever so thoroughly, twice, thrice if necessary.

In the matter of make-up for the dry skin, creamy textured or cream-base powders should be used exclusively, and paste rouge in preference to the compact sort. Also, beneath the decoration should be a foundation, always, especially so during cold weather. A foundation of cream or a lotion it may be, but it must be soothing as well as adherent.

One dry skin we know of that has fended off most gallantly the finger-marks of age by one simple little two-minute trick—anointing the throat and skin about the eyes nightly with a nourishing cream or skinfood and letting it remain on until morning.

And, by the way, if you would like a recipe—equal parts cocoa butter (melted) and lanolin, whipped together until cool and firm, makes an awfully good nourishing cream.

DO YOU have indigestion? Have you ever noticed that it comes from your mental attitude?

Springtime Paste

IN CONTRAST to the popular all-white of resort fashions are the delicate pastels which rather depose vivid hues. These include a white with a bluish tone, the indescribable shade of tropical waters, pink with a hint of mauve, gray, an orchid blue, and the familiar color associated with citrus fruits.

Crepes Printed And Woven

FACONNE or woven crepes are a high fabric fashion with a direct influence on silks in general. Among the Paris imports some of the most appealing ensembles have dresses in woven patterned jacquard silks, not the matronly, plushy-looking designs of the past, but remarkably clever and youthful in appearance.

Printed and woven patterns frequently are combined in the same fabric. Designed for evening and also for sports is a satin jacquard in geometric pattern over-printed with floral motifs in subdued colors.

Very soft and charming is a faconne and printed crepe in brown with a flower motif in yellow and green, lustred by a satin jacquard leaf. A smart sportswear crepe shows a printed and a woven bird motif.

Tips for the Homemaker

Linoleums are said to last longer if waxed or varnished. It does improve the appearance. The plain and the inlaid linoleums should be waxed and varnish is preferable for the printed linoleums because wax is liable to soften the printed surface.

The trend in bathroom colorings seems strong toward black in combination with either yellow or white. Both are decidedly effective as can be seen in the model bathrooms shown in one Broadway shop.

You and Your Child

What Will the Neighbors Say?

"I HAVE to give my children a penny whenever they ask for it," a mother said to me recently. I expressed surprise as I knew that this woman had a hard time making ends meet. "If I don't give it to them," she explained, "they begin to holler, and I don't want the neighbors to think I haven't got a penny."

Bringing up children with an eye on what the neighbors will think, is not confined to any one locality or class. We find this attitude everywhere. "Mary won't greet visitors when they come to the house," a friend complains. "What will my callers think of me?" Visitors should understand child nature, realizing that youngsters are sometimes shy, sometimes preoccupied, and they should make allowances. Forcing children to greet strangers will neither teach them kindliness nor manners. We shall get much better and more lasting results, if we ignore their lapses, and, in the mean time, use positive measures to overcome their shyness or thoughtlessness. In addition, showing our appreciation when the children do say their "How-do-do," and telling them afterward how "grown-up" they acted, will be a great help.

"My child giggles all the time when I take her visiting and she acts so silly," another mother wails. Well, suppose she does? Why should we try to put serious old heads on little shoulders? It's the same old story of the neighbors. This woman is afraid they will think that her child lacks good sense and that she lacks control of her young ones.

How embarrassed we are when Mrs. Jones is at the house and our Mary, upon being told to wear her rubbers, demurs and asks why. But why the embarrassment? We surely don't want Mrs. Jones to think that Mary is merely a puppet who dances as we pull the strings.

"My sister says I should spank her." "My mother thinks I shouldn't answer his questions." "My neighbor says she wouldn't let a child of hers make such a racket." Remarks of this kind are constantly made by perplexed and anxious mothers. We can't bring up our children to please relatives and neighbors. We must strive with all our might to understand these little creatures intrusted to our care, and then to guide them so that they will become healthy, self reliant, fine men and women. The children and their growth and development are all important; we must forget about the neighbors.

SAYS BABE TO RUPPERT

WHEN Babe Ruth talks with Col. Ruppert:

BABE—Colonel, I got your contract by parcel post and I don't like the looks of it.

RUPPERT—What's the matter, Babe? I thought it was a very fine contract.

BABE—You only guarantee me $150,000 for two years' work. I want eighty-five grand a year.

RUPPERT—I know it, Babe, but $85,000 a year is more than Hoover's salary.

BABE—What of it? Ain't you paying Herb Pennock more than Andy Mellon gets?

RUPPERT—Maybe I am, but $85,000 is a tremendous amount of money. Why, think of it, Babe—$85,000 is the equivalent of 4,250,000 2-cent stamps.

BABE—Well, if you feel that way about it, I'll take 1,700,000 5-cent stamps instead. I don't know how I can use 'em, but $85,000 worth of something is my price.

* * *

RUPPERT—I can't meet it, Babe. If I paid you $85,000 it would demoralize the ball club. The ticket takers would demand Admirals' uniforms with gold epaulets and the announcers would want $4,500 a week for crooning the line-ups through a megaphone.

BABE—But eighty-five grand ain't net salary to me. I've got some terrific expenses.

RUPPERT—Like what?

BABE—Well, I have to buy two pairs of spiked shoes at $11 a pair right out of my own pocket and this season a new fielder's glove will set me back another five-spot. Take those out of my salary and I've hardly got $84,900 left.

RUPPERT (choking up) — That's right, Babe. I never thought of it in that light before.

BABE—And don't forget I have to take a taxi from my house to the ball grounds every now and then. Things like that eat a fellow's salary up.

* * *

RUPPERT — Babe, I guess you're right. I'll pay you $85,000 for this year.

BABE—No, you won't! I want $85,000 a season for three years.

RUPPERT—Why, that's $255,000!

BABE—That's just the way I multiplied it too.

RUPPERT—Babe, a long contract like that is too much of a gamble. Do you realize in three years you'll be forty?

BABE—Yes. And do you realize in three years Landis will be seventy, but he's copping $65,000 per for the next ten years?

RUPPERT—But Landis isn't an athlete.

BABE—He'd be one in Mexico. Did you ever hear him make a speech?

* * *

RUPPERT—I can't gamble on a three-year contract, Babe. Why, just look at your ankles. They don't look good to me.

BABE—Say, are you Ruppert or Ziegfeld? If the shape of the ankles makes any difference, why don't you sign up Marilyn Miller to make your home runs?

RUPPERT—It isn't that, Babe. But in three years your legs are bound to slow up.

BABE—Let 'em slow up. What of it? When you knock the apple out of the ball park you don't have to dash around the bases. You can crawl around on your knees if you want to.

RUPPERT—I'm sorry, Babe, but I can't do it.

BABE—Listen, Colonel. Give me $85,000 per for three years or I'll take up hunting and fishing for a living. In fact, I've got a good mind to do it anyway. At least I wouldn't have to autograph my name on about a hundred thousand salmon and rabbits every year.

REPORTS EXPERT

Results Not Influenced By Age or Time Standing

W. E. Hardy, nationally known expert of New York and Philadelphia, but now of Los Angeles, says:

"Rupture (Hernia) comes through a natural opening. It is not a breach or tear in the abdominal wall, as most people think, therefore subject to closure."

The Hardy Super Shield, as furnished and supplied to the United States government, is a scientific advancement over all other methods and will not only retain any reducible rupture perfectly, giving immediate and complete relief; also relieve all fear and danger of strangulation; but closes the opening of the average case in 30 days. Make up your mind to permanently close the hernial opening by the use of the Hardy Super Shield. Mr. Hardy himself treats every case personally and proves to each what he claims for his treatment. If you want done what others have failed to do, see W. E. Hardy. Large and difficult cases of long standing specially solicited. Special attention given to children at nominal rates.

Mr. Hardy will be at the Hotel Carquinez Friday and Saturday, January 31st and Feb. 1st only. Hours: 10 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m.; evenings 6 to 9. Ask at desk for Mr. Hardy, Rupture Expert.

Avoid the use of elastic or web trusses with leg straps, as same rests where the bump shows and not where the opening is, often resulting in strangulation and permanent injury.

Don't wear your truss where the bump shows, but place it where the opening is. It is different. Call and be shown. He will be glad to show you without charge or fit you if desired. Anyone ruptured should remember the date and take advantage of this opportunity.

GLORIA SCORES IN TALKING PICTURE

One wonders—after seeing and hearing Gloria Swanson in "The Trespasser," at its local premier at the Fox-California theater yesterday—whether the producer-star hasn't introduced, in her first all-dialogue United Artists picture, a new era in audible films. For we haven't been able to think of a single parallel to "The Trespasser" in the field of the vocal cinema. Certainly Miss Swanson's independently produced United Artists picture unfolds a technique that is new to the speaking screen. All of which amounts to the most pleasing sort of entertainment.

Popular interest of course focuses on the fact that Miss Swanson talks—and sings—from the screen for the first time. Miss Swansons' voice is a delight to the ear. Had she never entered pictures, her stage voice would have guaranteed stardom in the legitimate theater. Here is a soprano that is clarion-sweet. She demostrates a wide vocal range in the two numbers she sings. One is "Serenade," a quasi-classic, familiar to all music lovers. The second piece is "Love" composed especially for Miss Swanson by Edmund Goulding, who wrote and directed the feature.

No less interesting than the vocal surprises in the film is the fact that once again Miss Swanson wears elaborate clothes. In "The Trespasser," there is scarcely a sequence in which Miss Swanson does not introduce a new and ultra modish dress creation.

In the new technique manifested in "The Trespasser," one sees the hand of Edmund Goulding at work. There is suspense crowding suspense, with the plot always taking a turn contrary to that expected. The theme concerns a successful girl of the business world and her marriage to the son of a Chicago millionaire. It is not until the hero, Robert Ames, has married again, that he discovers he is the father of the heroine's son. What happens when the invalid second wife insists that the heroine take her husband and go away with him when the heroine refuses to do so, and eventually sacrifices her boy to the care of his grandfather, all provides an emotional crescendo that finds a happy solution in the last lines of the dialogue.

Miss Swanson gives a strength and feeling to the part of Marion Donnell that once more distinguishes her as an outstanding dramatic actress of all time. Ames, with his mellow voice, makes an achievement of his difficult role. Sparkle is lent the dialogue by the rippling lines of Wally Albright, the three and a half year old youngster who plays the son.

Attempt To Blame Lover Fails, As Woman Kills Self

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28—(U.P.)—After writing a note in which she attempted to blame Howard Moore, 28, for their deaths, Mrs. Della Lee shot the man to death and then ended her own life in her apartment today.

Police found a revolver clasped in the woman's hand. A note to her sister, Vera McCain, told of her relations with Moore and said that he had ruined her life. It intimated that if "anything happens" he had carried out his threats to kill her.

Mrs. Lee rented the apartment a short time ago after separating from her husband, Smith Lee.

Apparently Moore was shot as he slept. There was a bullet wound in the back of his head and a second in Mrs. Lee's temple.

In her note the woman said: "He has ruined my whole life. If he gets me, remember I want to sleep at Angelus Abbey or a place like that. Dress me all in white, long dress, all white underwear, yellow roses in my hand. I think this $50 will be enough."

Peculiar Charges In Divorce Suit

OMAHA, Neb.—Charging her husband, Fred Gordon, taught their 4-year old son to smoke cigarets, Mrs. Rose Gordon filed suit for divorce in Douglas county court.

Shortage Of Water Hits Mining Camp

KINGMAN, Ariz., Jan. 28—(U.P.)—A rigid water economy program was placed in effect today at the Gold Wing camp in the Mohave mountains.

"Don't waste the water," was the word passed around among the 200 or more prospectors, attracted to the scene of Arizona's latest strike.

Water in the Gold Wing camp is nearly as precious as the yellow metal that is being dug from the ground. All of the water must be packed from springs several miles away.

There is no actual shortage now, due to recent heavy rains, but veteran miners are taking no chances on the supply running short. They are bending every effort to conserve it as much as possible.

In the camp, which is 65 miles from the nearest trading post, water is an important item in more ways than one. Besides its use as a thirst quencher, the liquid is used extensively in mining operations.

A large quantity of the gold being taken from the ground there is placer gold, which requires water to wash it from the sand and dirt.

Several sluice boxes are being built so the gold may be taken out in larger quantities than is possible by panning.

Lumber for the sluices and for the roughly framed houses now being built, is carried to the camp by burros—experienced in traveling Arizona deserts.

Bad Bandit's Bunions End Tram Holdup

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28—(U.P.)—A big, bad bandit's bunions almost landed him in the city jail today when he tried to hold up H. O. Nelson, street car motorman.

The youth, a Mexican, came to the front of the car as though to leave at the next intersection.

"Come on, stick 'em up," he growled, producing a revolver. "I'd ju t as soon pop you as not."

The motorman stood up, as though to hand over his money, then brought his heel crunching down on the robber's foot.

With a scream that told of tender pedal extremities, the would-be bandit hopped around on one foot. Nelson pushed him into the street. Then arming himself with his trusty controller crank, he unsuccessfully pursued the escaping bandit.

Escape From Death Told By J. Lasky

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 28.—UP—The first account of Jesse L. Lasky's narrow escape from death in a river in Mexico filled with alligators was told here late today by the motion picture magnate.

Lasky arrived here after a month's trip in the wildest parts of the Mexican republic where he had gone for the double purpose of a rest and to get a background and talent for a series of talking pictures in the Spanish langauage.

The incident occured on the Balsas river in Guerrero. Lasky and members of his party were the first white men to make the 300-mile exploration trip.

The past 50 miles of the journey was full o freacherous rapids and the canoe which the film magnate was piloting, overturned, hurling him into a whirlpool.

Carol Case, New York clubman and Jesse Lasky, Jr., plunged from their boats and dragged Lasky from the water.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping." Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. DANCE OF LIFE FEATURES NEW SONG HITS

Six original and tuneful musical numbers were written for Paramount's picturization of the stage success "Burlesque" under the title "The Dance of Life." The numbers are sung by Nancy Carroll, Hal Skelly, Dorothy Revier, May Boley and many other popular actors who make up the cast of this all talking melodrama of backstage life which will be shown at the Fox-California theater starting tomorrow for two days.

The numbers include "King of Jazzmania" "True Blue Lou" "Cuddlesome Baby" "Flippity Flop" "Ladies of the Dance" and "The Mightiest Matador". Richard Whiting, Leo Robin and Sam Coslow, well-known for scores of popular hits, wrote the music and lyrics.

In addition to these catchy popular tunes, many old time favorites are heard throughout the picture. "In the Gloaming" is sung by Nancy Carroll. "Sam, the Acordian Man," written by Walter Donaldson, is sung by Hal Skelly and a group, and 'Sweet Rosie O'Grady' furnishes a song and dance number for Hal Skelly and Nancy Carroll.

Skelly, the star of the stage production of "Burlesque" plays the role he made famous. Nancy Carroll, popular Paramount player whose successes in "Abie's Irish Rose" and "Close Harmony" have made her a fast favorite with moving picture audiences, has the leading feminine role. "The Dance of Life" is the story of backstage people—the troupers of the burlesque "wheel." It is a melodramatic love story against a vivid background of stage life and stage presentation.

On the same bill is a talking comedy. "The Plasterers."

EIELSON BODY HUNT AIDED BY FLIERS

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 28—(U.P.)—Four pilots in separate planes went to the wreckage of Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson's plane today to make an extensive search for the bodies of Eielson and his mechanic Earl Borland.

Each plane carried a passenger and the eight men who believed they would find some trace of the missing fliers before they returned.

Average depth of the snow at the place where the demolished plane was found is four or five feet.

Pilots of the four planes which left the ice locked motor schooner Nanuk shortly before noon, were Joe Gosson, Fred Gillam, Al Young and Capt. Pat Reid.

Eielson, noted Arctic explorer and adventurer was flying to assist the crew of the Nanuk when he disappeared Nov. 9. He encountered a thick fog and had lost his way when his plane hit on the desolate tundra of northern Siberia, 90 miles south of Cape North where the Nanuk has been held by solid ice.

The plane was traveling about 110 miles an hour when it hit, Crossman estimated. Crossman said the altimeter needle indicated to Eielson that his fast plane was 1000 feet above the ground.

In addition to the eight men who had gone to the wreckage which was strewn over an area of 200 feet, there were two dog teams at the scene. It was believed that the dogs might aid in the search for bodies by scent.

Students Laud Council Form Of Government

Approval of the new student council form of government recently established at Richmond Union high school was given unanimously yesterday by the high school students' association at an assembly of the organization.

A council of 40 pupils was created in order that opinion among the pupils might be more truthfully ascertained, and that unnecessary discussion in student body meetings be avoided. Student matters are first discussed by small advisory groups, are then submitted to the council members, who, in their turn, submit the motions to the entire assembly.

The problem of transportation to school games was also discussed at yesterday's meeting. It was pointed out that many Richmond pupils are unable to attend out-of-town games because of lack of transportation, but no solution to the problem was offered.

It was suggested by Harman Jatta, high school yell leader, that an organized rooting section be formed this term.

Suspect In Photo Fraud Taken By Long Beach Police

Chief of Police R. R. Cheek of El Cerrito received word recently that a man giving his name as R. Sturgess, wanted in El Cerrito for obtaining money under false pretenses, was being held in the Long Beach jail. The case was turned over to Sheriff R. R. Veale, who will send a deputy to get Sturgess.

Mrs. Rose Prella of Kearney street, El Cerrito, swore out the complaint.

Sturgess, according to Chief Cheek, posed in El Cerrito as a photographer and canvassed Richmond and El Cerrito homes offering attractive rates for photographs and enlargements. After he had collected down payments from a number of people he disappeared, according to the chief.

Sturgess was traced by post-office forwarding addresses to Fresno and thence to Long Beach where he was arrested.

KEY SYSTEM TRANSIT TO ORGANIZE NEW COMPANY

OAKLAND, Jan. 28.—Action of the Oakland Bank in filing suit against the Key System Transit company to recover $6,899,000 due on a loan made in 1923, will in no way halt operations of the company either by street car or ferry, it was announced today.

No reduction of service or actual sale of property is contemplated, nor will there be any change in the operating staffs.

These promises were made by A System today, in commenting on the Oakland Bank suit.

New Company

He announced that among the re-organization plans is the organization of a new company, the Railway Equipment and Realty company of Delaware, to take over properties.

He declared that present trustees representing mortgage holders will buy in property at public sale and then proceed with organization of a new company.

Present trustees may be members of the reorganized company or may be appointed by a reorganization committee, Lundberg stated.

Agreement Kept

According to his announcement, the majority of the stock holders have deposited securities according to a plan agreed upon several months ago. The aggregate par value of the deposited securities is $22,332,975, and the total amount of securities junior to the first mortgage is $15,762,657.

The announcement was also made that the State corporation department authorized sale of securities of the new company today.

In its articles of incorporation, the new company states it is not a public utility, but will lease certain operating properties to other companies.

New Companies

This is expected to result in the organization of two new operating companies. One will handle the street car system of the east bay cities, and the other the ferry and rapid transit suburban system.

Sale of the first preferred stock of the Railroad Equipment and Realty company is authorized, to pay one half of the principal of the outstanding first mortgage, held by the Oakland Bank.

By the purchase of new equipment and the inauguration of one man cars, substantial savings (of the street car system are expected. It is believed that it will result in an annual saving of not less than $500 per car.

"Formality"

The Oakland Bank suit according to Lundberg, is simply a formality to carrying into effect the reorganization. He stated that the plan will result in the reduction of the company's bonded indebtedness by more than 75 percent.

In his statement Lundberg said: "This action is a part of the general scheme of readjustment of the Key System Transit company as agreed upon by the capital stock holders. Its net result will be to reduce the bonded indebtedness of the company from approximately $20,000,000 to $4,500,000 in accordance with a plan outlined in July, 1928.

"It might be called a family affair among security holders and so far as the public is concerned, it will be carried out without any effect upon service of any division of the company.

"There will be no change of operators. The details of the plan are on file at the main offices of the Wells Fargo Bank and Union Trust company in San Francisco."

Improvements Planned

When asked if the completion of the reorganization would be followed by any extensive program of improvements and betterments or extensions, Lundberg said that although such plans have been considered, nothing definite had been decided.

"It may take another year to complete the present reorganization plans and until that is out of the way, we cannot say what improvements will be made," Lundberg said.

Attorneys of the company pointed out that before adopting any budget for expenditures outside of actual upkeep requirements, the management of the Key System must first learn from actual experience what the financial results of the reorganization will be.

It was declared that the first thing considered by the company would be service.

PLANE CRASH EVIDENCE GONE

KANSAS CITY, Kas. Jan. 28.—UP—There will be no official report from Wyandotte county officials on the crash of a Central Air liner late yesterday near Fairfax airport, which resulted in the deaths of five persons, Coroner Ben F. Coffin announced late today.

The statement was made after conferences between aviation officials and public agents regarding destruction of the charred remains of the plane. Charges of criminal negligence were contemplated originally against executives of the Universal Aviaton corporation and the Central Air line.

Censure from the press and public was heaped upon E. L. Sloniger, branch manager for Universal who alleged'y authorized field workers to destroy evidences of the wrecked plane by scattering parts of the broken motor and flame scarred fuselage over a wide area.

"There will be no inquest and no warrants will be asked," Coffin said, after Fred R. White, county attorney advised there was no authority for filing charges.

"I am forced to drop investigations because nothing can be learned from the wreckage of the plane in its present state," Coffin said. "I am also unable to bring proceedings against officials who permitted the wreckage to be moved and further demolished because there are no laws governing such action."

First arrivals at the scene of the burning plane, among them local press photographers, said the group of air field workers threatened to "beat up" and break the camera of anyone attempting to take pictures of the wreckage.

Final identification and disposal of the bodies of four passengers who died with Pilot Dyke Laudeman, Kansas City, Kan., in the flaming inferno of the wrecked plane also occupied attention of the coroner today.

Compromise At Naval Parley To Be Sought

LONDON, Jan. 28—(U.P.)—The five power naval conference struggled today toward a compromise on methods and within a few days they may reach decisions on what to talk about.

At 10 a. m. Thursday, all the delegates will meet in the Queen Anne drawing room of St. James' palace in the presence of the press and discuss an agenda.

The discussion will give the Americans an opportunity to put forth their belief as expressed by Secretary of State Stimson in a radio speech to the United States today that cruisers and destroyers should be limited first, and then submarines abolished or reduced before the question of further battleship reductions is discussed.

The chief purpose of Thursday's plenary session is believed to be to allay public feeling that the conference has struck serious difficulties.

Principal work of the Thursday meeting, according to an American spokesman, will be to appoint a committee of secondary members of the various delegations to act in a way still to be determined.

China Tells Plans Of New Court Process

NANKING, China, Jan. 28—(U.P.)—First indication of the procedure which the Chinese nation proposes to substitute for courts that have been conducted by foreign nations under extra-territoriality treaties, was given here today.

Speaking at the weekly governmental assembly, Wang Chung-Ghui, president of the Judicial Yuan, mentioned some details of the plan upon which Chinese officials have been conferring with foreign representatives in recent months.

He said the various restrictions upon power of the courts would be entirely removed and the courts conducted under the extra-territoriality treaties would be converted into Chinese tribunals in conformity with the Chinese judicial system.

The practice of having foreign consular officials watch court proceedings would be abolished, he said.

manner and immediately dispatched to the vault by means of the conveyor.

* * *

The vault or cash room, could be so situated that bandits would not have access to it from the main floor of the bank. The openings leading into the bank would not have to be large enough so that the person in the vault would be jeopardized by gun fire from bandits who might enter the main room of the banking institution.

* * *

If the process of entering the vault were worked out in the proper manner, the man in charge there having a general view of the main floor of the bank would have ready access to burglar alarms, etc., in case bandits entered the bank and attempted to force the teller to send cash to them by means of the conveyor.

* * *

And we are foolish enough to believe that a system similar to this will be worked out in the near future to prevent the further slaughter of innocent men in bank holdups.

* * *

Banks may not be vitally concerned at the present time because most of them carry insurance against holdups and their losses are covered. But if the epidemic of bank holdups continues, insurance companies may be forced to raise their rates out of all reason.

* * *

And one of those who laughed the loudest at our suggestion insisted that his brain storm be added and here it is:

* * *

And then another good idea for prevention of bank robberies, would be to eliminate the banks.

* * *

But then again, what's the use preventing bank robberies. Just imagine the countless thousands of men that would be put out of work.

Policeman Acts As Alarm Clock, For Auto Sleeper

When J. L. Wood, 681 Eighth street was awakened in his car, parked at Cutting boulevard and San Pablo avenue, by Arthur Peralta, police officer of the El Cerrito department, he resented it.

Maybe he was tired. Maybe he was sleepy. At any rate, according to Peralta, Wood became angry at being disturbed.

He also, according to the officer, became pugnacious, and wanted to fight.

So Peralta, after acting as a human alarm clock and arousing Wood from his slumbers, locked him up.

Wood was released yesterday on his own recognizance, and will appear before Police Judge J. F. Plank of El Cerrito today.

Miss Myrtle Moon and Mrs. Marjory Allen have been placed on the regular list of Richmond school faculty members this week.

Miss Moon, succeeding Mrs. Loren Whitlock, will teach at the Woodrow Wilson school, and Miss Allen is succeeding Miss Irene Carey at the Pullman school.

Mrs. Whitlock and Miss Carey are sojourning in Europe.

DELEGATES TO DAM MEET WRANGLE

RENO, Jan. 28.—UP—A climax was reached tonight in the conference of states for division of water and power from the proposed Boulder dam when California's delegation went into a special session alone.

It was believed the California meeting would have a deciding effect on the entire conference because it came shortly after warnings had been sounded by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada and Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona.

There were other symptoms that there was dissention among California's representatives including a telegram from the California governor urging them to disregard any "local interest."

"If you do not come to some agreement here I think I can safely say that there will be no appropriation for the dam," Senator Pittman told delegations from Arizona and California as well as Nevada.

"While the project was authorized the appropriation has not been made. If you cannot agree how do you expect 435 congressmen and 96 senators to agree?

"We got the bill passed because it authorized the establishment of a certain agreement between the states. If we do not have that agreement we will be back exactly where we were before we got the bill through. We have worked seven years on it. We were able to get the bill passed because I induced Senator Hayden to give up his filibuster. If you cannot agree here we cannot expect congress to give us any money. That applies not only to the water but to the whole situation."

Senator Haden then remarked: "Senator Pittman states it exactly as I view it."

S. O. Night Held By Local Elks

"Standard Oil night" was held by the Richmond lodge of Elks last night in the lodge rooms under the direction of Frank Tiller, past exalted ruler.

A program of professional entertainment was enjoyed and a crab feast followed the meeting.

Ladies night will be held by the group Saturday night in the local clubrooms. A dance is planned. Leo Marcollo will be in charge.

Past exalted rulers night will be held next Tuesday night. Initiation will be featured.

LOCAL BUSHER TO ENTER PRO BASEBALL

The fame of seventeen-year old Doyle Taylor, fast hurler for the Thomas Motors has spread far beyond the boundaries of the Oakland Winter league, it was learned yesterday, when L. J. Thomas, manager of the Motors, revealed that Taylor has signed a contract with the Missions.

It has also been found that Taylor was interviewed following the Sunday battle by Willis Butler, scout for the St. Louis Browns which bodes well for the local prodigy of the diamond. Although Taylor is unable to join the eastern outfit because of his former contract, the fact that he had that opportunity, seems to promise that local followers of the sport of baseball will soon be seeing the name of Doyle Taylor in connection with the big leagues.

Taylor has had a meteoric rise to renown. He pitched several seasons for Richmond Union high school nine, and then pitched the El Cerrito junior squad to victory in the local American Legion competition. His pitching genius came into full bloom during the past winter as star hurler for the Motors in the Oakland Winter league.

The scout from St. Louis had primarily attended Sunday's game for the purpose of watching J. Labetich, Thomas shortstop, in action. Labetich was with Seattle of the coast league last season, and there are many rumors to the effect that the local short stop will soon be playing for the St. Louis Browns. However, he is due to report with Seattle again in the spring.

The local teams of the Oakland Winter league seem to be especially productive fields for speculation by the authorities of the professional league, for, besides Butler, Joe Devine, scout of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Carl Zamlock of the Oaks was on the lookout for big league material at Sunday's game on the First street lot.

A large number of athletes who have cavorted on Richmond diamonds are preparing to report to professional league teams. McCoy at third base will go into action with the Missions or the Oaks this spring, while Babe Panella at first base is under contract to the Missions. Tony Krasovich, second baseman for the Motors, is expected to return to the Senators this season. Hurst, twirler, and Borreani, receiver, will both return to the ranks of the Oaks, while Smaker, center fielder, will report to Sacramento. Mailho will see action in league baseball for the first time when he reports at the Oaks camp.

Jock Malone To Show Wares In Vallejo Ring

VALLEJO, Jan. 28.—Jock Malone warrior of many a hectic ring campaign, will headline the weekly boxing show here Thursday night with Bud Doyle, San Jose, in a ten round bout.

Malone, the St. Paul Irish middleweight, has fought the best in the game. The Irishman has come the closest to the top of any fighter that ever lived. He has fought six champions but never wore a crown. He has fought Mickey Walker, Johnny Wilson, Jack Britton, Bryan Downey and the late Tiger Flowers. Some of these boys he has beaten but in non-title fights.

In his most recent fights Malone has been returned the victor. He won over young George Dixon and Red Uhlan in masterful fashion. He is still the boxing master of the ring.

Bud Doyle made a fine impression on the fans here several weeks ago when he won a ten round decision over Dusty Miller, local heavyweight. The fight was a sensation from start to finish. If he gives the fans half as much action this week as the day he gave Miller a good fight the fans will be well repaid for their visit to the local arena.

Promoter Vic Barry has signed as a semi-windup to this main event an eight hound semi-windup bout between Red Williams of Napa and Bob Stinet of Richmond. Three other fights complete the card.

Harry Tezzi Named Head Of Aviation Club

Harry Tezzi was re-elected president of the Aviation club of Richmond Union high school last night at the first meeting of the spring term. A'do Nicoletti was chosen to occupy the position of vice-president, and LeVerne Cooper was elected secretary-treasurer.

Great activities in the construction of model aircraft by the club members was forecast at last night meeting. The local high school aviation enthusiasts have successfull entered models in state and local competition during the several years of its existance.

Herbert E. Welch is faculty adviser to the club.

Scout Camping Meet Planned

The national camping department of the Boy Scouts of America will conduct a camp directors training school at the Oakland Scout camp beginning April 14 and running for five days. The camp will be open to any Scout leaders who want to take special training in camp activities, camp operation and camp lore.

Initiation Held By Boys Hi-Y

Eighteen new members were taken into the Boys' Hi-Y at the informal initiation of the organization last night. Reynold Carlson, director of the club and George Eby, faculty adviser, were present at the initiation. The club membership is now over 40.

Those initiated were: Warren Black, Clyde Parker, Jr., Fred Oshima, Gaylord Cummings, Stanley Walgren, Walter Bradbury, William Brock, James Hurley, Robert Drexel, Lewis Ball, Sammy James, Phillip Carlin, Donald Follett, Carence Overaa, Roy Rasmussen, Glenn Conn, Francis Wood, Darrow Sutton, Wendel Neeley and Milton Belway.

Y. M. D. CAGERS IN OAKLAND VICTORY

The Richmond Y. M. D. basketball team won its second game in the Y. M. C. A. Californiad last night by defeating the Oakland Y. M. D. by a score of 38 to 18 at Oakland.

As a result of its victory, the local boys will meet San Francisco within a short time. The winner of this game will meet Fresno for the championship.

At half time in last night's game the score stood 18 to 11 in favor of the locals.

In the second half the local boys opened up a passing attack that held the Oaklanders helpless.

The lineups:

Richmond 38—Fowell 8, Hillyer, Brown 4, Santaella, forwards; Johnson, 8, Jewell 4, Black 10, centers; Sprague, Livermore 3, Crigler, Abbott, guards.

Oakland 18—Masterson 2, Appleton, Hall 5, forwards; Miller 2, center; Turenkia 3, center; Brunn, Anderson 8, guards.

Oregon State Beats Huskies

CORVALLIS, Ore., Jan. 28—UP Oregon State made it two straight over the University of Washington basketball team by defeating the Huskies 19 to 17 here tonight. Close checking featured the game. It was the lowest scoring contest played here this season.

Man Boasts 36 Years Church Attendance

MEXICO, Mo.—For 36 years, Dave C. Owens, 59, has bestirred himself Sunday mornings to trudge to the First Baptist church to attend the men's Bible class.

Owen began attending the Sunday School class on December 17, 1893, and since has never missed a service.

Community M. E. Five, San Pablo To Decide Title

The Community Methodist cagers will clash with the San Pablo Baptists Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium in the playoff for the B division of the Y. M. C. A. Church league. The Wesley Methodists of the A division will tangle with the First Baptist the same evening in a contest postponed early in the league season. The latter game bears no significance on the outcome of the A division competition, for the First Christians have already captured the A division title.

Church league competition has been closest in the B division.

Several weeks ago, the Grace Lutherans, San Pablo Baptists and and Community Methodists were all tied for the lead. The Grace Lutherans were forced to drop out of the running last week when refeated by the San Pablo Baptists.

A record gallery is expected to witness this important contest upon which depends the championship of the B division of the Y. M. C. A. Church league.

Local Girls At Ice Match

A large group of girl hockey enthusiasts of Richmond Union high school recently attended a hockey match played at Berkeley between the all-American women's team and the University of California women rink athletes.

The girls were accompanied by Clara McLaurin, Mildred Cuthbertsno, and Barnice Whiting, all members of the Richmond Union high school faculty.

The Richmond girls who witnessed the game in Berkeley were: Lucile Morrill, Gertrude Boese, Nellie Adams, Gertrude Heise, Doris Nystrom, Arlene Halstrom, Jacqueline Armstrong, Dorothy Boswell, Benetta Ciabattari, Gertrude Huber, Helen McDonald, Anita Robinson, Lucille Van Pruoyen, Zorka Alexich, Nina Gozzano, Elva Plouff, Muriel Pace, Julia Robbins, Silva Seawright, Adeline DeBoli, Emily Correia, Edith Pucci, Esther Auten and Dorothy Oswill.

Giant Pinch Hitter Signs

PAT CRAWFORD, reserve first baseman and one of the heftiest pinch hitters in the National league has signed on the dotted line for John McGraw. Crawford is also training to hold down second and third base in an emergency according to reports from his home in South Carolina.

HIGH CAGERS DEFEATED BY BERKELEY

The Richmond Union high school varsity and B quintets were completely vanquished by large scores at the hands of the Berkeley high school cagers yesterday in the Berkeley gymnasium. The local varsity was swamped by a 33 to 19 score, while the Richmond lightweights also lost their contest by a score of 27 to 8.

The hopes instilled in the hearts of Richmond sympathizers by Richmond's double victory over Emeryville high school last week were completely shattered by yesterday's setbacks.

The Richmond varsity fought hard but in vain against the superior offensive of the Berkeleyans. Richmond managed to keep its opponents in control till the last quarter, when the Berekley athletes decided to pile up a few additional counters to make their victory more decisive.

The Richmond B's failed to show their customary speed and the college city lightweights had little trouble in smashing the local defense.

The outlook looks rather gloomy for the Richmond quintets as a result of yesterday's defeats. Richmond has lost three games and won one, while the local B squad has won two contests and lost two. The Richmondites seem unable to cope with the veteran cagers of the Alameda County Athletic league, but local fans are still hoping that after gaining more experience, the Richmond athletes will be able to avenge their losses suffered earlier in the season.

The Richmond Union high school varsity and B aggregations will tangle with the Piedmont high outfits Friday afternoon in the local high school gymnasium. The B game will start at 3:30 o'clock and will be followed by the varsity contest at 4:30.

Richmond's starting lineup in yesterday's varsity game included: Viano, Scarcella, forwards; Passoni, center; Brock, Masek, guards Degnan, substitute guard.

The lightweight squad of Richmond high school contained: Boschetti, Rollino, forwards; T. Wilson, center; Rogers, Santilippo, guards— substitutes. Snodgrass, Corrazzo, Johnson, forwards; and A. Wilson, center.

LOMSKI WON BOARD SAYS

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—UP— Six thousand boxing fans can't be wrong! At least the Illinois Athletic commission apparently was of that opinion and started an investigation which culminated late today with the commission awarding Leo Lomski, a ten round decision over Jimmy Braddock in their fight Jan. 17.

The fight was called a draw while practically all fans present were shouting that Lomski had won.

The commission announced today that in checking the scoring cards of the referee and two judges it had discovered that Referee Davey Miller had made a mistake in addition and that the correct total on the card gave Lomski the fight.

BRONCO CAGERS DEFEAT BEARS

OAKLAND, Jan. 28—UP—A field goal in the final seconds gave Santa Clara's basketball team a 33 to 31 victory over California here tonight. The Bears had trailed 18 to 12 at half time but made the score 31 to 31 with 30 seconds to play. Then Santa Clara again jumped into the lead and he'd it.

Stars were Spottswood of Santa Clara who made 12 points all in the first half and Pursel of California who scored 10 points.

Scott Expects Razzing In Florida Ring

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—UP—"The bird", holds no terrors for Phil Scott.

The British heavyweight who departed today for Miami, Fla., said he expected to be "booed" when he entered the ring for his 15-round match with Jack Sharkey on February 27.

"But I don't care what kind of a reception they give me as long as I win," Scott added.

"Wouldn't it be funny, though, if they gave me and Sharkey what you call the 'Bronx cheer.' You know Sharkey isn't any too popular himself."

Scott has never been popular with American ring fans, and his foul victory over Otto Von Porat in Madison Square Garden in December added a few more sprigs of razzberry to the Britisher's crown of thorns.

Liver, Gall Bladder and Stomach Trouble Relieved

FONG WAN
Eminently Successful Herbalist

2946 Morgan Ave.
Oakland, Cal.
Nov. 19, 1929.

THE FONG WAN HERB CO.

Dear Mr. Fong—I am writing this letter to express my gratitude for the splendid results and benefits I have received from the use of the Chinese Herbs prepared by you.

I had a complication of Liver, Gall Bladder and Stomach Trouble with sharp, stabbing pains in the lower right side of my Abdomen. The region of the Liver was exceedingly sore and tender; so much so that even loose clothing became irritating and uncomfortable. My Stomach was also very sore to the touch and felt as if there were a lump the size of an egg in it. After meals, food which was very sour and burned the throat, was returned to the mouth.

This condition steadily became worse over a period of a year. During this time, I was treated by two doctors without any appreciable results. Both decided that an operation was necessary.

By good fortune, I came into contact with a man whom you had treated successfully for an Ulcerated Stomach, and he strongly urged me to take your treatment. This I did.

Results were noticeable the very first week, and now, after six weeks, I am entirely free from the terrible stabbing pains and the soreness over my Liver. My digestion is good. The old feeling of lassitude has completely disappeared and I feel much brighter and more energetic than I have for years.

I am most happy to strongly recommend the herbs of the Fong Wan Herb Co. as prepared by you.

Wishing you unbounded success, and again thanking you for what you have done for me, I am

Very cordially yours,
CYRIL MAW.

UPON RECEIPT OF POSTAGE WE WILL MAIL YOU A BOOK ON HERBS. (10c within the first zone or 15c for more distant zones.)

"GENERAL CRACK"
BY GEORGE PREEDY

Copyright 1928 by Dodd Mead & Co., Inc.

The Warner Bros. & Vitaphone production starring John Barrymore is based on this novel.

SYNOPSIS

General Crack, as head of the imperial army of King Leopold, has succeeded in vanquishing the enemy, and lays his plans at Brussels, for the coronation of Leopold as Emperor. The price of his siding with Leopold was the hand of Princess Eleanora, whom Leopold had destined for his own wife. Gabor, a knave dismissed from Crack's service, forges a letter from Eleanora to Leopold, protesting love, and schemes to get his revenge on Crack by having Leopold and Eleanora enmeshed in a liaison, Leopold is tempted.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

"In her waiting—in her expectations?" smiled Gabor, with a slight shrug. "What more can I tell Your Majesty? She wrote to you, and did not, I think, get an answer."

"It was impossible," cried Leopold, agonized, "for me to send an answer; almost impossible for me to know how to pen an answer!"

And then he caught himself up, feeling how desperately he was committing himself before this mean man, this spy, this scoundrel, this backstairs go-between. And yet he had no other possible help, no other possible ally.

"It may be," said Gabor, in his most insinuating voice, flickering his ashy eyes, "that when her husband returns the lady will recover. He does not seem to find it so difficult to capture ladies' hearts."

He would see her, come what may!

"What do you mean by that?" cried Leopold. "What have you seen?"

"I was present at the Opera tonight," smiled Gabor, "and I observed—how easily and lightly ladies will lose their hearts to a hero of the moment. Prince Christian has a showy presence, and those arrogant manners which impress female hearts. I think there were two or three there to-night to whom he would not have to sue long in vain."

"If Your Majesty," continued the Transylanian, "were to write a letter, I think that I could see that it was conveyed to Ottenheim."

"I'll write no letter!" cried Leopold, wildly. "I have nothing more to say. You may, Sir, begone, and endeavour, for your own good, to forget all this affair."

"There is, Sire," he said, "yet one other alternative: if you will not write, you might yourself go to Ottenheim."

Leopold looked at him, as if fascinated, across his shoulder.

"Go myself to Ottenheim?" he repeated. "You talk moonshine, madness!"

Gabor gave his jerking shrug.

"Christian," he remarked, "is occupied with the war; Your Majesty might gain a few days' absence from headquarters. Surely you are not yet such a—"

"Such a slave to this man, you would say?" added Leopold, bitterly. "Say what you like, for I cannot take offence from you, Ferdinand Gabor: I am come so low as that! But never dream," he added, "that I shall go to Ottenheim. Do not even think of such a thing; do not even let such words pass your lips again."

Gabor bowed ironically.

"Then I have nothing more to say, Sire," he remarked, "and I fear, Sire, that I can be of no use to Your Majesty. As for my news which you ask—it merely comes to this: again I tell you that the girl mopes and pines, and maybe, so the doctors say, before the spring she'll die. These little creatures, Sire, have a very light hold on life; and often, in losing their happiness, they lose their all."

Leopold bowed his head upon the marble mantelpiece, but did not answer. One by one, the lingering coals dropped into blackness on the hearth, and the harsh cold filled the large, pompous room.

"Go," said Leopold, without turning.

And Gabor bowed ironically to the back of his bent figure, then turned towards the door.

"I wish Your Majesty good luck!" he said; and left with no more than that, and yet did not leave without a deep impressiveness.

Returning to his large and comfortless chamber, he worried through till the dawn, trying to read, trying to think, lighting candles, quenching them; pacing up and down; sitting down, exhausted; resting his head on the pillows of his bed and on the pillows of his chair; gazing with horror at the dead ashes on the hearth, and the long sheet of wax, now hard and chill, a frozen pendant from those first guttering candles of his interview with Gabor.

At length, his circling and distracted thoughts came round to the Countess Carola. In her he had at one time much delicate comfort; he could not believe her now wholly disloyal. He would, he decided, endeavour to renew this one-time intimacy, which did no harm to any one, and had in it at once something both noble and pure. Once more to be enthralled by the Countess Carola Borgonie would be to forget—or nearly to forget—Eleanora; to recover his present dignity, and possibly hs peace of mind.

Leopold, at once impetuous and capricious, decided that to reëstablish his delicate relations with the Countess Carola before he left Brussels would be to recover much of the poise which he had lost, to restore himself to some measure of equanimity, both in his own eyes and those of others; and if she was yielding, prepared to lean from her pedestal of ineffable virtue . . . a mistress must be at least a distraction.

Impulsively, and before he had either slept or dressed, he snatched aside the heavy curtains from the dawn, which was turning the sky the colour of nacre, above the city. He then searched nervously for a pen and paper, and finally found it in one of the ormolu desks in the anteroom. There he sat down, in the uncertain light, and began to write: "My dear Carola." Although he had a sense of awkwardness in penning this epistle, his mind ran fluently, and he composed, easily enough, the few sentences which invited the Countess Carola to a return of their former friendship—which had been, he well knew, recently rather neglected by both of them.

The Countess Carola lodged in one of the houses on the other side of the Grande Place. Her husband remained in Vienna, but she had in her company a bevy of graceful ladies and many servants.

Always the Countess Carola had succeeded in exalting him in his own eyes, and that was what he now wished more than anything—to be raised in his own eyes . . . after last night.

He watched the valet with the note cross the square, and then he hastily dressed himself, to escape the tedium of the attendance of his gentlemen and servants—a ceremony that he always detested. He felt relieved, almost elated, as if a terrible temptation had been offered, and then, on his gesture of repulsion, on his cry of resistance, had passed.

The sounds of movements in the palace began. Leopold shrank nervously into himself on hearing these footsteps; he did not wish to meet any one—not any one but the Countess Carola; till she had soothed him, he was in no mood to face the world.

The valet returned; he had been on duty all night, dozing in the adjoining closet. He looked tired, and hardly able to repress yawns. With a deep obeisance he returned to Leopold the note that he had just given him.

"I did not, Sire, leave it with the Countess," he said, sly beneath his servility.

"And why?" demanded Leopold, startled.

"Because, Sire, she was not alone," replied the valet, who was a man of tact and experience, "and I did not think it would be your wish that this note should be sent up to her while she was with company. If I have done wrong I can, Sire, immediately return with it."

XIV

AS Count Hensdorff, heavily and gloomily left the mansion of the Princes of Orange, he found Gabor on the steps, waiting for him; and the Transylvanian, with a low salute, at once fell into step behind him, as he walked round the Grande Place.

"Do you know anything about this departure of the Emperor?" asked Hensdorff in a low voice of his spy.

And Gabor answered immediately:

"I know nothing; but I can guess a great deal!"

"Has he gone to Dresden?" whispered Hensdorff, apprehensively; and, with a sneer, Gabor replied:

DIVER CAPTIVE UNDER ICY RIVER

MONTREAL, Quebec, Jan 28.—UP—Twenty feet down in the icy water of the St. Lawrence river Peter Trans a diver had been imprisoned for more than 36 hours tonight while surface workers tried vainly to rescue him.

A message late tonight said that a wooden crib which is to be erected around the imprisoned diver had been so nearly finished that it had checked the swift river current around the man.

A volunteer was sent down without diving apparatus to investigate. He found Trans was held down by a spike from the main coffer dam on which he was working .Any movement it was said might be fatal. It was impossible to determine whether Trans was alive or dead.

Receives Air

Alone in the dead silence of the deep water Trans received steady supplies of air as the lonely hours passed, while the surface crew tried vainly to release his diving apparatus from the diving ladder in which it was entangled.

Two divers en route from Quebec by airplane, were held up by snow, and it was feared they could not reach the scene tonight.

Trans was employed in the construction of a 40,000 horsepower development of the Ontario Paper company at Outarde Falls, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence below Murray bay. He began to descend his ladder to the river bed in the routine way yesterday morning when he slipped. His air tubes and safety lines twined themselves in the ladder and other obstructions.

Volunteers Aid

The air tubes were not choked, and a steady supply of air was pumped to him as rescue efforts got under way. One volunteer descended twice without diving apparatus, in an effort to cut him free, but could accomplish nothing.

Arrangements were made at once by telegraph to rush two divers to the falls. The plane left here and picked up the divers at Quebec. The plane was forced by snow to land at Rimouski last night, and was unable to take off again this morning.

Word from the isolated power development was slow, but company officials said there seemed little hope that the plane could get through before tomorrow because of flying conditions.

Meantime workers began to construct a wooden cage around Trans hoping to make an airtight compartment and by means of it release him and raise him to the surface.

Horner Will Install New Aahmes Heads

Clare D. Horner of Richmond, past potentate of Aahmes temple of the mystic shrine will act as installing officer at the installation of the newly elected officers of Aahmes temple in Oakland Friday evening. The ceremonies will be held in the lodge room of the new Scottish Rite cathedral on Lake Merritt. This will be the first time that any organization outside of the Scottish Rite bodies have had access to the lodgeroom. Following the ceremonies there will be a dance in the spacious ballroom of the cathedral for Shriners and their wives.

Ezra W. Decoto will officiate as master of ceremonies during the evening, he being a past potentate of Aahmes temple.

The new potentate to be seated is Elliot Johnson, Oakland attorney who was elected at the annual meeting early this month. Johnson's aides for the year include: Romaine Myers, chief rabban; Roy Milligan, assistant rabban; Earl Warren, high priest and prophet; Dr. John L Grensham, oriental guide; Fred Wells, treasurer; Robert Abernethy, recorder and Judge Lincoln Church, trustee.

Associated Oil Sued For $30,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28. — Naming the Associated Oil company as defendant, Adolph T. McCormack, a sailor, yesterday filed suit here for $30,000 damages.

McCormack alleges that on April 25, 1929, while at the wheel of the Associated Oil steamer "Port Costa," midway between Alameda and Pinole, he was knocked down by a violent spin of the wheel.

This, he charges, was due to careless and negligent operation of the steering apparatus.

DE RIVERA RESIGNS AS HEAD OF DICTATORSHIP IN SPAIN

East month the dictator indicated he wished to stay only six months longer, turning over his power gradually to some new regime, the exact nature of which remained to be decided.

Insidious Stage

Then events reached what he called an "insidious" stage. There were student strikes, rumors of rebellion in the army, a crisis in national currency, frequent open attacks against his regime.

Exasperated, he nervously penciled a note at 3 a. m. Sunday asking the men who had placed him in power—17 army and navy chiefs—whether they still had confidence in him. If not, he would resign "in five minutes," he said.

The military chieftans never had a chance to reply formally. Even before they could gather in groups to decide their best course, King Alfonso took matters into his own hands.

The monarch summoned the dictator to the palace Sunday afternoon. Word of the summons reached De Rivera as he was indulging in his favorite recreation, riding. He hurried to the palace.

"What's this I read in the newspapers about a note to the Captains General?" Alphonso demanded in effect.

De Rivera explained he had asked for the chieftains' confidence, not as premier, or on behalf of the government, but in behalf of the soldier. Primo De Rivera, who some years ago had received a personal mission from the army to establish a dictatorship. He wished to know, he added, whether he still enjoyed the confidence granted in those days of turmoil.

'Ousted' By King

The King's reply to the explanation is not known, but when the dictator left the royal presence he had been made to understand he no longer enjoyed his majesty's confidence, no matter what the generals might think.

With little ado, the King accepted his resignation. It was agreed, however, not to make the retirement public officially until after a full cabinet meeting this evening.

There were easily-read signs, however, of what had happened. For one thing, the soldier-premier announced he would have to change clothes after the cabinet meeting because "I have many things to do this evening."

Moreover, the Minister of Interior, who had been present during the resignation, refused to take up routine administration matters with department heads, indicating the cabinet was about to fall. The resignation of some of the cabinet chiefs began to be known at 6 p. m.

New Cabinet Planned

All afternoon General Berenguer was busy on the telephone trying to form a cabinet to bring the gap between the dictatorship and a government formed under full constitutional auhority.

The cabinet met on schedule this evening. At 8 p. m., still with no trace of emotion in his face, the premier left the meeting and went to the palace to make his resignation official by supplementing the verbal announcement with a formal, written one.

Tonight there was great uncertainty as to Spain's political future, particularly as to the transition to constitutional government and the form such government will take.

Police Find 'Lost' Pupil

Richmond police returned a six year old school boy to his home late yesterday afternoon when his mother reported that he was lost.

At five o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mrs. A. Luiz, 310 Macdonald avenue, reported to police that her six-year o'd son had failed to return from school.

A few minutes later he was picked up on Macdonald avenue by a local policeman and was returned home.

BORAH CHARGES ESPIONAGE IN OFFICE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—UP—A teapot-sized tempest was stirred up today by Senator Borah, Idaho dry leader, with an intimation that his office was the object of espionage by government agents. Attorney General Mitchell quieted the tempest somewhat with a vehement denial.

The affair was viewed here as the probable result of the data which Borah has been keeping for some time, concerning prohibition enforcement and said to involve some 17 U. S. attorneys and other situations. Borah has been unsparing in his criticism of enforcement since he stated that prohibition personnel ought to be gone over "from top to bottom."

Office "Watched"

Today he gave out the word that he was informed his office was being watched by someone desirous of knowing where this data came from. The word came to Borah from a person who represented himself as a government agent of some sort. Borah later was informed that this agent was transferred the day after he voiced his suspicions to Borah.

"No department of justice agent or employe has watched or followed Senator Borah or any other member of Congress," said Mitchell. "Any sort of espionage upon members of Congress or their offices by this department is unthinkable and utterly repugnant to the sense of propriety of every official in this department."

Probe Started

Mitchell sent his chief investigator, J. Edgar Hoover, to investigate the situation. Hoover interviewed Borah, and later Borah issued a statement sticking to his story. The man, Borah said he was sure, is a government employe.

Misunderstandings seemed to permeate the somewhat heated atmosphere of the prohibition controversy. Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission sent a letter to Rep. Dyer, wet, Mo., saying he had decided against Dyer's proposal to have the commission investigate the feasibility of aiding dry-law enforcement by legalizing 2.75 percent beer. Dyer said Wickersham misinterpreted him that he merely announced an intention to ask for hearings by the House judiciary diciary committee on this plan. Dyer wishes to have the committee summon Wickersham and thereby obtain his views on the subject.

Protect Your Furniture

A $1.25 to Rid Your Home of Moths May Save You Hundreds of Dollars.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.

RAIN PADRE HAS HEART ATTACK

SAN JOSE, Jan. 28.— UP — Father Jerome Sixtus Ricard 'padre of the rains' again caused anxiety throughout the world tonight because his heart was weakened by recurrence of an old affliction.

The famous scientist was brought to O'Connor sanitarium today so that he might have better care for his heart. He collapsed in his home on the campus of Santa Clara university, where he celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary last week.

"There is no cause for immediate alarm," attendants at the sanitarium said this evening. "Father Ricard seems to be resting easily."

The man who became noted by his weather forecasts for periods far ahead of the date he made them was confined to the sanitarium early last year from the same malady. His condition was critical for many days then but he gained sufficient strength to go back to his laboratory in April.

He has been active with his instruments, studying weather prospects from sun spots, every since. On his birthday he spent 15 hours working on his forecast for February and said "there will be plenty of rain to satisfy everybody."

Father Ricard's most serious attack of his present illness was at 1:30 a. m. today. Nurses said he had seemed to improve since then.

Mass Meeting On Park Plan Here Today

Preliminary steps toward an extensive campaign to interest voters of Richmond in the proposition of converting land owned by the eastbay Municipal Utility district in Wild Cat canyon into public park lands, will be taken at a meeting in the Richmond clubhouse this afternoon. Mrs. S. S. Ripley, Richmond chairman of the campaign, will be in charge of the meeting.

The meting today is the outgrowth of a mass meeting held here a week ago when the project was explained by Robert Sibley, of Berkeley and Mrs. Francis Grady, also of Berkeley who spoke on behalf of the Eastbay Metropolitan Park association.

Park groups are being formed in Richmond, Piedmont, Oakland, Berkeley, San Leandro and other cities.

According to Sibley, the sum total of taxes will remain the same as usual and the people will have for al time this marveous acreage of park land. The land is already the property of the people, the only legislative step needed, he pointed out, is to have the enabling act passed which will permit the transfer of land from that reserved for water conservation to public parks.

Mrs. Ripley, who was appointed chairman of the central council, announced that her committee here will include:

Mrs. R. L. Scofield, member of the Richmond Park and playground commission who is to be vice chairman of the Richmond committee; Dr. Irene Jenkins, president of the Business and Professional Women's club; Mrs. J. B. Vloeberghs, president of the West Side Improvement club; Mrs. C. O. Bryant, president of Club Mendelssohn; Mrs. H. W. Bryant, president of the Civic Center club; Mrs. Ben Howden, president of the South Richmond Improvement club Mrs. W. W. Scott, Mrs. Mattie Chandelr, council-woman and Mrs. Tsar N. Calfee, Red Cross director.
